DE REPUBLICA NON DESPERARE.

No 55. PITTSBURGH, FEBRUARY 18, 1817. Vol 31.

AN ACCOUNT FOR LEE'S Patent and Family Medicines;

Celebrated for the cure of most diseases to which the human body is liable,

PARTICULARLY

Worms, Coughs and Colds, Asthma, Consumption, Gout, Rheumatism, Sprains, Palsy, Head ache, Tooth ache, Corns, Itch, Diseases of the Eyes, Ringworms, Tetters, &c Inward weaknesses, Nervous Disorders, Female complaints, Hooping cough.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers.

The proprietor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds we cleare often of fatal consequence. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

In sickly times or places, a dose should be taken every fortnight, and if there is reason to apprehend personal danger, it may be taken once a week.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S Worm Destroying Lozenges.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of a similar title so commonly complained of, in operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is, its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent and is so mild in its operation, that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady, or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach or bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many other fatal disorders.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the "vomiting and purging of children," a dreadful disorder which annually destroys thousands of the tender part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness, having a pleasing appearance and an agreeable taste.

HAMILTON'S Grand Restorative,

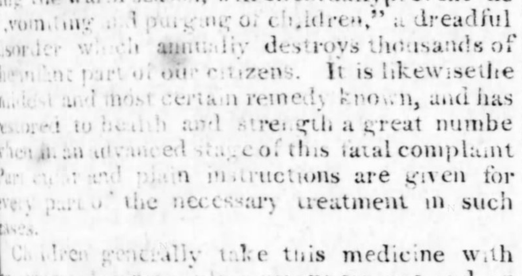
Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders, Consumptions, Lowness of Spirits, Loss of Appetite, Impurity of the Blood, Hysterical Affections, Mental Weaknesses, Violent Cramps in the stomach and back, Indigestion, Melancholy, Gout in the stomach, Pains in the Limbs, Relaxations, &c

The principal operation of this remedy is in the stomach, restoring the digestive powers, and receiving forth from that organ new health and vigor into every part of the system; it enriches and purifies the blood without inflaming it; braces, without stimulating too violently, the nervous system; strengthens the secretory vessels, and the general habit, brings back the muscular fibres to their natural and healthy tone; and restores that nutrition which immoderate evacuations had destroyed, and whose loss had thrown the whole frame into langour and debility.

HAMILTON'S Essence & Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, asthmatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, &c, This valuable remedy is prepared both in a fluid state and in pills, and thus excellently adapted both for external and internal use.



ITCH CURED,

By once using Lee's Sovereign Ointment.

The proprietor informs those persons and families who are suffering under this disease, (against the infection of which no person is safe) that if this ointment is used at night on going to bed, it never fails to perform a cure by the following morning, as thousands who have used it during the last ten years can testify. The peculiar excellencies of this infallible remedy for the itch, over every other, are the certainty of a cure by single application: the ingredients being so innocent as to be applied with perfect safety to the tenderest infant, and its being not only free from any offensive smell, but equally agreeable with the pleasants pomatum

INTERESTING LETTER.

Extract of a letter from a young Bostonian, on board of the Washington 74, dated

"GIBRALTAR, 31st Oct. 1816.

"Since our departure from this place last July, we have visited Naples, Messina, Syracuse, Malta, Tripoli, Tunis and Algiers. From the coast of Barbary we went to Malaga, but not being able to obtain pratique within 20 days, we came to this place.

"I was quite disappointed in Naples.—The houses are lofty and are chiefly built of white stones, but when you approach near, you find them faded and stained.—Many of them are, however, very superbly furnished. There are many poor in this city. You cannot walk ten steps without being importuned for charity by the lazaroni, the number of whom are estimated at about fifty thousand. They are often found dead in the streets, having died with hunger. I saw an instance the other day, of a man just breathing his last, and he was taken no more notice of than if he was asleep. There is a place in the environs of the city, where there are three hundred and sixty six pits, one for every day in the year, where they bury all persons who have neither money nor friends: eleven were buried in my presence—they were thrown in just as they died.

"I visited many places round Naples—at Virgil's tomb I saw scratched on the wall the names of several Bostonians: Mrs S—, Mrs. M'C—, &c. &c. I saw also the cave of Pausilippo. Conceive of a hill, nearly a mile long with a road cut through the whole distance, nearly 90 feet high—some of the common people, who are very superstitious, suppose it to be the work of the devil—it is undoubtedly a work of great antiquity.

"On our arrival at Naples, the government expected nothing else than an attack. Transports were sent for additional forces, which returned full of troops, convoyed by a 74 and some frigates. Yet the people seemed to like us very much, for the first boat that went ashore was received by a great crowd, crying, "huzza bona Americano."

"Our ship answers our expectations—she sails remarkably well, and is very still. There are several English and Dutch 74's and 80's here. The Washington looks like a picture among them.

"While we lay at Messina, the Princess of Wales arrived there in a merchant ship from Egypt. Our commanders all went to pay their respects, and capt. Perry secluded her with his band. She was compelled to leave the place without going on shore, as the ship could not obtain pratique.

"There was a considerable disturbance at the Theatre last evening, on account of some American Citizens not taking their hats off, when they played "God Save the King." Our officers that were present, all rose and took off their hats: on which the music struck up "Hail Columbia," when all the company in the house rose and took off their hats, which was highly honorable to both parties.

"Last evening Governor Don gave a ball to the officers of the American and Dutch fleets: and on Thursday next, Lady Don gives a ball to the officers of the United states ship Washington."

Short Chapter of Hints and Advisements on the subject of Hard Times.

BY ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

Here and there-folks.

As thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone. 1 Kings xx. 40.

IT is an abundance of such here-and there-business, that occasions a considerable portion of the pinching wants of the present day.

A small farm, cultivated with utmost diligence and care, will furnish a prudent family with a moderate sufficiency. Again, "he that has a trade has an estate," even although he own neither house nor land. But if the farmer and the trader, instead of attending closely to their proper callings, are busy here and there, they will assuredly "come out at the little end of the horn." Moreover, though they both thrown, the one to his farm, & the other to his trade; yet if their wives and their daughters, instead of practising the like industry and the like good management within doors, are busy here and there, "what is brought in at the door, goes out at the window"—all is gone.

See you that farm, overgrown with thorns and thistles and briars, and its fences broken down. How comes it about? Is the owner one of Solomon's sleeper's? No; he is not a sluggard, he is a very stirring man; he is busy here and there, but seldom in the proper place. Perhaps he is doing head work abroad; is chaffering in horses, or cattle, or sheep, or is peddling over the country, or is pursuing, in a small way, some other scheme of speculation; or peradventure he has either got a little commission that occupies his attention, or is seeking after one.—in which ever case, the "hand writing upon the wall" plainly shows what he is coming to.

Lo, an auction! What's for sale? The goods of a grocer, and the tools of a mechanic. Are they profligates? No. Are they inanimate clods? Far otherwise. What then? They are lovers of chat, of company, of fun, and so, instead of attending diligently to their callings, they were busy here and there.

Mark the interior of that house—no useful industry going on—no order—nothing in its right place—more wasted than is eaten. Is the housewife a dolt? So far otherwise, she is one of the most sprightly and ladylike women in the place; but she has no time to bestow upon the affairs of her household—she is busy here and there.

Look upon that comely young man in the hands of a bailiff. Has he committed a crime? Not so; his reputation is fair. How comes it then? Is he in debt? Is he wanting in faculties? He possesses excellent faculties of body and mind. Is he indolent? No, he is in quick motion all the day long. How happens it then that he, a single man, who never met with any heavy misfortune, is unable to pay his debts?—He has been busy here and there.

"Not ready," says the sly lawyer, when the case is called up and when the witnesses have been waiting at court day after day. And why not ready? Being busy here and there, something has been forgotten and neglected by him. Here the circumstances are, however, materially altered. If the not-ready-lawyer obtains a continuance, he encreases thereby his own emoluments. Partly "by this craft he has his wealth"—it is the pigeons only that are plucked [Couran.

AGRICULTURAL ANECDOTE.

When the Archduke John, of Austria, was in England, (in company with the Emperors, Kings, Princes and Marshals who visited there after the reconquest of France) he was so struck with the great improvements made in Agricultural implements, (himself being an Agriculturalist) that he purchased as many as filled twenty large chests, carried them with him to Vienna, and invited the artists and agriculturalists of his country to take models and drawings of them, and to introduce them into their labour. The German gazettes, speaking of the fact, say, "His Highness though he has not so much honor, as his brother Charles for fighting the battles of Aspern, has a greater share of the incense of the heart of the millions that probably will be benefitted by his attention and spirit of improvement."

FRENCH SETTLERS.

It appears by "Abeille Americaine," published in Philadelphia, that there have been two recent meetings of the French Emigrant Association, at which M. Gardiner de Saints, presided at one, and William Lee, Esq. our late Consul at Bordeaux, at the other. M. Lakanal, one of the French Institute, and formerly of the National Convention, but now settled in Ohio begged his name to be added to the list of the founders of the contemplated city Demopolis. M. Peniere, of the late French Chamber of Delegates, announced his intention of exploring the S. W. regions of the United States to select a spot for the emigrants.—At the second meeting Mr. Vice President Lee, Messrs. M. J. Martin, Dirat, and Parmentier, were appointed a committee to present Congress the demand [request] of the society for the purchase of a parcel of land on the Tombigbee between the 22d and 35th degrees of latitude; for the location of a settlement: and the "Sage of Monticello" was requested to trace for them the bases of a system of Social compact.

From a Paris Paper of Nov. 24.

They write from La Rochelle under date of the 15th of November, that a convoy which sailed from the coast of Britany for Bordeaux, has been cast on the savage coast of the Island Oleron, by a storm which lasted more than 24 hours. The crew of a schooner, composed of seven men, perished: six other vessels of the same convoy lost only four men. The cargoes, which consisted of grain, have almost all been saved. The inhabitants of the island have assisted the shipwrecked with the greatest zeal.

The Rev. Caleb Colton, Nephew of the late Sir George Staunton, has related in his recent publication, entitled HYPOCRICY, A satire, the following anecdote which although it may have appeared before in print, has never until now receeived the stamp of authenticity:

"My late uncle, Sir G. Staunton, related to me a curious anecdote of old Kien Long, Emperor of China. He was inquiring of Sir George the manner in which physicians were paid in England. When, after some difficulty his majesty was made to comprehend the system, he exclaimed—"Is any man well in England, that can afford to be ill? Now I will inform you," said he, "how I manage my physicians. I have four to whom the care of my health is committed: a certain weekly salary is allowed them; but the moment I am ill, that salary stops till I am well again. I need not inform you my illnesses are usually short.—London Paper.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—New colors were presented last week at Portsmouth to the gallant 36th Foot, and consecrated in the garrison chapel—remains of the old standards, now deposited with their Colonel, the Hon. General St. John, were first received at Winchester 17 years back. Of the whole corps of officers, 63 since that period have either been killed on the field, fatally wounded, or died, and only three are now left—of 82 sergeants remain but 13—of 24 drummers, three—and of 1350 rank and file, 23 only!—The whole casualties sustained by the corps since the receipt of the colours, 3276!

INTERESTING ANECDOTE,

Extracted from "the Travels of Robert Sutcliffe, in some parts of the United States, published in London in 1811. The author was a member of the Society of Friends, and highly esteemed as a man of strict integrity and eminent piety." E.

"In conversation with a friend, he informed me, that in the early part of his life he was at Havannah, where he had considerable business to transact; but, being ignorant of the Spanish language, an Irish Roman Catholic priest kindly lent him his assistance on various occasions; and so effectually that the priest was the means of his acquiring a large property during a short stay there. At the time of parting with his friendly priest, he presented him with a purse of one thousand dollars as a small compensation for the assistance he had received: but the truly catholic priest declared, that he would not accept of any compensation of this sort: adding, All I ask of you in return for any service I have rendered you is, that if, at any future period, you happen to meet a countryman of mine in need of assistance, you will do to him as I have done to you. This affords one amongst many proofs, that the truly christian spirit is not confined to any profession of religion."

GETTING RID OF RATS.

An inn keeper lately complaining to a Frenchman that his house was greatly infested with rats and that he would willingly give a considerable sum to get rid of them, was on the morning he received his bill accosted by him, "Sar, I shall tell you vich vay you shall get rid of de rat" "I will be much obliged to you if you can," replied the landlord "Vel den, only charge de rat as much as you charge me, and de vill never com to your house again be gar.

THE undersigned have further received communications from the Bank of New Salem, Fayette County, and the Bank of New Philadelphia, which they lay before the public without further comment,—that of New Salem is lengthy; but the following extract is all which has any bearing on the point at issue, viz:—

"We shall always be willing to accommodate persons wishing for exchanges, with respectable unchartered paper of this State, or of Ohio, or Virginia, and to redeem with chartered paper or specie, when chartered banks resume specie payments, as we have before affirmed.

"We have thought it expedient to transmit to you a list of the names of persons holding stock in the New Salem Bank."

"Signed by order of the board,"

P. MORSE, Cashier."

A list of 138 stockholders is exhibited, containing many respectable names in Fayette, county. Stock subscribed is stated at 254.450 dollars, on which it is said 10 per cent has been paid in, in chartered paper, and their issues they say do not exceed 30,000 dollars.

The Bank of New Philadelphia, write to us the following letter, dated

"Bank of New Philadelphia, Feb. 5, 1817.

Gentlemen

Your circular directed to the President and Directors of this Bank was received last mail and laid before the Directors, yesterday. They did not hesitate a moment in directing me to answer you, that they do pledge themselves to redeem all our notes which return to the Bank, with chartered paper, and after other Banks redeem their notes with specie, it is our intention to do so likewise.

The Directors of this institution are aware of the difficulties which attend banking at present, and will therefore conduct accordingly.

We have from the time that our Bank went into operation, till now, never refused to give chartered paper for our own, and would not consider ourselves as deserving any credit without doing so.

By a special order of the board of Directors.

JAMES A. LEE,

PROPRIETOR of that large and commodious establishment in Howard street, Baltimore, respectfully informs the citizens of the U. States at large, and those of the western country particularly; that his house is fitted up in a manner which will ensure to all those disposed to favor him with their patronage, the best accommodation in every respect. The reason why he addresses himself to those of the western country particularly, is that he has long lived in that portion of the union, and he flatters himself that he is remembered by many persons in that quarter.

Country merchants and persons travelling on business, who stop at his house, may always rely on the most accurate information relative to the state of the market and all mercantile proceedings.

The conveniencies of his establishment are numerous he has near one hundred rooms neatly fitted up as chambers, where persons may be quite retired from noise and bustle—he has also some rooms elegantly furnished with large double beds, where gentlemen can be accommodated. As he considers a good clean bed one of the greatest luxuries, he has taken great pains to place in that department, maids who pay the strictest attention to the cleanliness of the sheets, and to have them well dried and aired.

His table is provided with a profusion of the best poultry, meats and vegetables, that the market affords, and active and attentive waiters who anticipate even the very wishes of his guests.

He regularly imports the Choicest Liquors.

His Madeira wine not only amateurs but connoiseurs, have pronounced the best they have ever tasted in this country, and he assures the public that it is not unfrequently the case, that he has to supply from his vaults, "London particular," to gentlemen who are determined to treat their friends with the best.

The stable attached to the establishment, he has no hesitation in pronouncing the best in the U. States—the hostlers are attentive and faithful, and have been brought up to the business—the best oats and hay selected, and none other than such as the proprietor inspects, is ever admitted into his granary.

Of his establishment in general, he conceives he has spoken no more than will be fully justified on visiting his house

Mere words are often vain and weak,
Come try—it for itself shall speak.

Pledging himself to be alive to all the interests and conveniencies of his guests, he solicits the patronage of his fellow-citizens.

PITTSBURGH.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1817.

Extract of a letter from a Member of the House of Representatives of this State to the Editor, dated

"HARRISBURGH, Feb. 14, 1817.

"The Bill, supplementary to the act incorporating the city of Pittsburgh, which had passed both houses of the legislature, was returned on the 17th inst. by the Governor with the following objections.

First—The office of Alderman is created by law. The officer is commissioned for purposes defined in the charter of incorporation. His authority is circumscribed by the bounds of the borough. It is hence matter of great doubt, and merits the reconsideration of the legislature, whether constitutionally by a law of date subsequent to their commissions, all the authority vested in justices of the peace, in civil and criminal matters can be imparted to, and be exercised by such Aldermen throughout the county, beyond the limits of the jurisdiction which they can claim, in virtue of their commission.

Second—The expediency and necessity of extending as contemplated by the bill, the powers of the Aldermen is very questionable. It is not sanctioned by the precedent of any similar provision in the act incorporating the city of Philadelphia, and the want of it has not been felt there.

Reluctantly as I do this act, it yet becomes the more imperiously a duty, because of the knowledge I have lately acquired, that one of the gentlemen, whom the law incorporating the city of Pittsburgh (along with others so far forth as it can be done by a law) translates into the office of Aldermen, constituting him a Judge of a Court of Record, with jurisdiction in criminal cases, similar to a Court of Quarter Sessions, and who is now acting in these several capacities, was not at the time of passing that law, nor is he now, legally a Justice of the Peace or Alderman.

SIMON SNYDER.

Harrisburgh, February 7, 1817.

As soon as the objections appear in the Journals, a re-consideration will take place, and it is believed that it will pass by a majority of two thirds.

A supplement to the act for the sale of escheated lands has passed a third reading—this act authorises the treasurer, when the property is struck down, in case the money is not paid, to put it up again for sale, leaving it discretionary with the Commissioners what property they wish to purchase for the use of the county, and authorising the Treasurer for the time being, to execute and acknowledge deeds for property sold by his predecessor. A bill has been reported for a turnpike road from Sawmill Run to the summit of the Coal Hill. The grand committee on roads, &c. are requested to report to the House the appropriations called for, and also the objects of a general interest, to which money can be most beneficially applied. The turnpike between this place and Pittsburgh is unanimously agreed to be of the first importance. The committee on the Judiciary and Militia systems have not yet reported, and I do not believe there will be much change in either, this session."

Distressing Incident.—On Saturday evening last, THOMAS WILSON, an old and respectable citizen, employed as one of the guard to two waggons loaded with specie, which the Branch Bank of this place was sending to Philadelphia, was killed on the turnpike road, nine miles from town, by the overturning of one of the waggons and a box of dollars falling on his breast.

The bill regulating the practice of physic and surgery in this commonwealth, was taken up in the senate on the 3d inst. and negatived without one word of debate.

A writer in the New-York Columbian, upon the subject of the abolition for imprisonment for debt, states that three thousand persons are annually confined for debt in New-York, who are supported with food chiefly by private benevolence.

A house was burnt near Petersburg, (Va.) a short time since, in which three coloured children were destroyed, having been locked up by their mother, who had taken off the keys.

SIR GREGOR M'GREGOR.

The commander of the remnant of Bolivar's defeated army, and since of the Central army of Venezuela, is a native of Scotland, was knighted, it is said, in Spain, for services rendered under Lord Wellington, settled in the city of Carraccas in 1810, married a Spanish lady of distinction there, and received a command of cavalry under Gen. Miranda, in 1811. In August, 1812, he was obliged to quit Carraccas for the West Indies, in consequence of Gen. Miranda's treachery to the patriot forces, surrendering unconditionally to Gen. Monteverde. Gen. M'Gregor is an accomplished officer with a prepossessing figure, a gentlemanly and captivating address, and appears among his soldiers in a plain, unostentatious simplicity of dress.

A letter, dated New Orleans, Dec. 24, to one of the editor's of the Norfolk Beacon, says:—

"This is a season of great joy with us. Yesterday was the anniversary of our first battle with the British army in 1814, and until the 8th of Jan. there will be one continued round of festivities. If they cease then, (as I fear they will not) they will be renewed on the 17th of the same month, which is the day on which the enemy evacuated the country. There will be more damage done this way than was sustained in battle."

It is impossible to read the following story, without regretting that Mr. West has never had leisure or inclination to imbody & perpetuate the conceptions, which must have entered into such a mind as his, at witnessing the scene related:

From Gall's life of Sir BENJAMIN WEST.

"After the taking of Fort Du Quesne, to which the new name of Pittsburgh was given, in compliment to the minister of the day, General Forbes resolved to search for the relicks of Braddock's army. As the European soldiers were not so well qualified to explore the forests, captain West the brother of the artist was appointed, with his company of American sharpshooters, to assist in the execution of this duty, and a party of Indian warriors who had returned to the British interests, were requested to conduct him to the place where the bones of the slain were likely to be found. In this solemn and affecting duty, several officers belonging to the forty second regiment accompanied the detachment, and with them maj. sir Peter Halket; who had lost his father and a brother in the fatal destruction of the army. It might have been thought a hopeless task, that he should be able to discriminate their remains from the common relicks of the other soldiers; but he was induced to think otherwise, as one of the Indian warriors assured him, that he had seen an officer fall near a tree, which he thought he could still discover; informing him at the same time, that the incident was impressed on his memory, by observing a young subaltern, who, in running to the officer's assistance, was also shot dead on reaching the spot, and fell across the others body. The major had a mournful conviction in his own mind, that the two officers were his father and brother, and, indeed, it was chiefly owing to his anxiety on the subject, that this pious expedition, the second of the kind that history records, was undertaken."

"Captain West and his companions proceeded through the woods, and along the banks of the river towards the scene of the battle. The Indians regarded the expedition as a religious service, and guided the troops with awe, in profound silence. The soldiers were affected with sentiments not less serious: and as they explored the bewildering labyrinths of those vast forests, their hearts were often melted with inexpressible sorrow; for they frequently found skeletons lying across the trunks of fallen tress, a mournful proof to their imaginations that the men who had sat there, had perished of hunger, in vainly attempting to find their way to the plantations. Sometimes their feelings were raised to the utmost pitch of horror, by the sight of skulls and bones scattered on the ground—a certain indication that the bodies had been devoured by wild beasts: and in other places they saw the blackness of ashes amidst the relicks—the tremendous evidence of atrocious rites."

"At length they reached a turn of the river, not far from the principal scene of destruction, and the Indian who remembered the death of the two officers, stopped; the detachment also halted. He then looked in quest of some object which might recall distinctly, his recollection of the ground & suddenly darted into the woods. The soldiers rested their arms without speaking. A shrill cry was soon after heard: and the other guides made signs for the troops to follow them towards the spot from which it came. In the course of a short time they reached the Indian warrior, who, by this cry, had announced to his companions that he had found the place where he was posted on the day of battle. As the troops approached he pointed to the tree under which the officers had fallen. Captain West halted his men round the spot, and with sir Peter Halket and the other officers formed a circle, while the Indians removed the leaves which thickly covered the ground. The skeletons were found, as the Indians expected, lying accross each other. The officers having looked at them sometime, the maj. said, that as his father had an artificial tooth, he thought that he might be able to ascertain if they were indeed his bones, and those of his brother. The Indians were, therefore, ordered to remove the skeleton of the youth, and to bring to view that of the old officer. This was immediately done and, after a short examination, major Halket, exclaimed, "it is my father!" and fell back into the arms of his companions. The pioneers them dug a grave, and the brothers being laid in it together a plaid was spread over them and they were interred with the costomary honours."

ENGLISH PAPERS.

Liverpool papers to the 23d November, were received yesterday. They do not contain much interesting matter.

A Madrid paper of the 28th of October mentions that the King of Spain intended to send a special minister to the United States, to demand explanations respecting the support given to the South American provinces.

A further reduction of the British army had been ordered.

The distress of the laboring and middling classes of people in Sunderland, we understand is great beyond any former precedent. By inquiries instituted by the magistrates, it appears that one pawnbroker only, (and there are many in Sunderland) has, besides some thousands of pounds worth of other articles, no fewer than 1200 watches, and 150 wedding rings, pledged with him.——Durham Adv.

SLEIGHING.

A Parody upon "Ye mariners of England."

Ye gentlemen and ladies,
Who scorch in southern climes,
Ah little do you think upon,
The joy of sleighing times.
Give ear unto a Pittsburgh man,
And he will plainly show,
All the joys and the fears,
When we ride upon the snow.

When snow, and frosty weather,
Turns nature's visage white,
We get the girls together,
All wrapped up warm and tight.
Right merrily their little tongues,
Do rattle as we go,
While away in the sleigh,
We do ride upon the snow.

At night our weight of metal,
You easily may tell;
For seldom do we venture out,
Unless we have a Belle.
And bells have always clappers,
And rattle as we go,
While in spite of the night,
We do ride upon the snow.

If dancing is the fashion,
Though "tis wicked" says the parson,
We scamper to a village inn,
And carry there the farce on;
While merrily the fiddle goes,
The girls they shake the toe,
At Noodle doozy we get boozy,
And come home upon the snow.
